The President is up against an inevitable comparison with Senate Leader Lyndon Johnson, whose 150-minute conference last November at Acapulco with Senor Lopez Mateos still has the bravos ringing. Mr. Eisenbower will be expected to match the Majority Leader, if possible to top him, not so much in the soft civilities of diplomacy (although this is quite important) as in some of the hard substantive realities which make up the relationship of the two neighboring

The Line-Up of Your Congress

Ambassador Hill has already opened a path of goodwill for the Eisenhower visit. With Bob Hill as his trailbreaker, the President can't go wrong and he could go a far piece down the road of serious discussion. It's safe to say that Mr. Hill knows every inch of the way.

ANOTHER FACTOR working for Mr. Eisenhower is the praise-worthy restraint of Lyndon John-son. He did not set himself up last November as a challenger or usurper of the President's roll in foreign affairs. Quite the contrary is true. The Senator whose party had just swept the Congressional elections, c a m e over the border by invitation while Senor Lopez Mateos was still President-elect.

The two triumphant politicians did spend two and a half hours together, with only an interpreter and a waiter there, but the conduct and aftermath of the meeting were the last word in correctness. Although it is known that the two leaders tabled on that the two leaders talked sub-stantive matters, Johnson made it clear to reporters that he was a "legislator" and not a "diplo-mat." At no time d'd he over-step the position of Senate -Majority Leader.

IN ALL TRUTH, Senator Johnson has done much the same for the President as Ambassador Hill has done, although in a different manner. Together they have cleared the ground and set up a few guideposts which could serve as a ready-made agenda for the get-together of the Presidents, Nobody can predict what will come of the presidential meeting, but on the basis of some scouting around, I can offer a few brass

So that an idea I heard the other day, seems to me timely right now.

JAY BUDSEY, who serves patrons of the Town and Country when they are in the mood for libations, thinks that since this is the Winter Golf Capital of the World, we should work at it in every way.

And to that end, he thinks every place in town where invigorating and revitalizing fluids (depending on the point of view) are sold, should be a 19th hole.

AT THE RECENT Mixologists' contest here, J ay won second prize with one of his golf drinks. He called it a 'sand trap.'

It consists of green cream de menthe on the rocks, with a float of cream sprinkled with nutmeg, topped by a small

Record of Survey Given Approval Of Supervisors

A Record of Survey presented by Roy T. Smythe of Palm Springs for property on the west side of Bubbling Wells Road south of 20th Avenue in the Desert Hot Springs area, was approved by the Board of Supervisors this week as recommended by the planning commission, with Lots 1, 2, 9, 10 and 11 to be deleted due to flood hazard. G. K. Sanborn, of Palm Springs. icensed land surveyor, had said that Smythe feared a condition nposed for a road easem already on the property and with an existing windbreak, but Plan-ning Director Tyler Suess assured supervisors that all that be required is that a ro on the Record of Survey map. OXFORD, Miss. — (UPI) — Dr. Katherine Rea, Dean of Womenat the University of Mississippi, says a high scholastic average in college does not seem to help women graduates to higher salaries.

Dr. Rea earned her Ph.D. degree by studying how women graduates of eight colleges in Mississippi fare in their jobs. She found that "graduates of distinction" are earning only slightly more than women in the low average group.

Shadow Village represents the ultimate in land planning. Wide curved boulevards all paved, with concrete curbs and gutters, will wind artistically throughout the Village. Homesite layouts have been carefully planned for proper orientation of each home. Careful restrictions have been adopted to assure increasing property values. Careful thought has been given to the need for recreation and family living. There's to be a large tract on which is proposed a community swimming pool — stables—show ring and many other facilities in a gorgeous park setting for the use of and pleasure of the residents.

TOP SHOW TONIGHT—Frankis lains and Bobby Troup are featured in "The Case of The laded Joker" which takes "Perry Mason" (Raymond Burr) into the strange world of the "beatniks" on CBS-TV at 6:30 p.m. Frankis lains appears for the first time as a dramatic actor, Danny Ross, a big time comedian who is charged with the murder of a small time agent.

Should be a good show.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for nine years and we have three children. My mother-in-law showld cut it out.

ONE WHO KNOWS and WAX-INE'S children. Whenever she is showing a picture of them she will always say, "These are ROY'S and MAX-INE'S children. I get so burned up when she does this that I have to clench my fists and grit my eeth to keep from telling her ff. Have you lany advice on how! Lean to plear the first thing.

Way to turn. I can't kick a guy when he's down. Help me do the right thing.

DEAR ABBY: The young woman who works for my husband gave him a tie for Christmas. He knows how I feel about her. Her taste is hideous but he wears the tie constantly just to aggravate me. How would you handle this?

MIXED UP DEAR MIXED: You are contusing loyalty, pity and martyr-dom with "love." A 16-year-old is not mature enough in her judgment to pledge herself to a 5-year-old is me. How would you handle this?

MIXED UP DEAR MIXED: You are contusing loyalty, pity and martyr-dom with "love." A 16-year-old is not mature enough in her judgment to pledge herself to a 5-year-old is me. How would you handle this?

DEAR WIFE: Ignore it. It's knot three children. My mother-in-law always refers to my children as ROY'S children. Whenever she is showing a picture of them she will always say, "These are ROY'S children," never ROY'S and MAXchildren, never ROY'S and MAA-INE'S children. I get so burned up when she does this that I have to clench my fists and grit my teeth to keep from telling her ff. Have you any advice on how I can correct this ignorant habit without getting into a fight with her?

BURNED UP
DEAR BURNED: Listen closely. YOUR parents probably refer to the children as MAXINE'S chil-dren. This is a natural "habit' and you'd be wise to overlook it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man who maried a woman who was married twice before. Both of her husbands died. I bought her an especially nice wedding band. She wears it on the same finger with her other two wedding bands. I don't know if I have the right to ask her to please take off her other two weddings bands and wear only mine. Is it proper to wear three at once? NUMBER THREE

DEAR THREE: A woman is en-titled to wear only one wedding band at a time. Ask her to please

DEAR ABBY: Boy, oh, boy, oh, DEAR ABBY: Boy, oh, boy, oh, boy, did I ever see myself in one of your reader's letters! That mother who yelled at her daughter to get her off to school on time could have been me a few years ago. No more! I just wake up the kids, have breakfast on the table, let them help themselves and I go. let them help themselves and I go back to bed. If I "help" them get ready I start to pick and nag and work myself into a nervous state. I tell them if they're late, they can make their own excuses because I am not writing any. (They haven't been late yet.) Abby, dear. wrecks they're making nervous

DEAR WIFE: Ignore it. It's knot worth the aggravation.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl with a 16-year-old body but my mind is older. I went steady with a wonderful guy for three months and five days. He got mixed up with a bad crowd and now he is serving five years. I know he loves me and I feel the same about the loves me and I feel the loves me and I feel the same about the loves me and I loves me and I feel the same about him. I promised I'd wait for him. If I go back on my word he will lose faith in all people. I think now is the time to prove my love for him by waiting. My friends think I'm erazy. I am so mixed up and lonely I don't know which
